By Associated Press.
NEW BRUNSWICK, Dec. 7.—Detective Fred A. David, Middlesex county, announced today that he planned to question a New Brunswick banker whom he believes may have been an eye-witness of the murder of Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills on September 14.

According to David, the banker, whose name he declined to divulge, has been mentioned in the case and has been questioned at least twice but has refused to confirm or deny the story that he was on the Phillips farm the night of the crime. David did not indicate why he wanted to question him.

According to detectives working on the case the mysterious green car which Mrs. Jane Gibson said she saw in the DeBussey's lane the night of the murder has been discovered. They asserted that while the banker mentioned today is not the owner of the machine they declared he had made arrangements with the owner by which he could use it when he desired. The investigators asserted they did not believe the banker had a part in the murder but were of the belief he had witnessed the shootings. They declared that his story would corroborate Mrs. Gibson's statement in many respects.

CAR SUPPLY FOR FUEL DISCUSSED AT UNIONTOWN MEETING

Baltimore and Ohio railroad officials, at a meeting of coal operators of the P. M. and P. branch of the Connellsville Division, in Uniontown last evening, presented the car situation in an entirely new light to many of the operators and gave promise of continued improvement in the placement of cars to operating companies. A suggestion for placing of cars on alternate days at the various plants was considered at some length but this change was held in abeyance pending the testing out of such system on the line between Morgantown and Fairmont, W. Va.

R. W. Brown, superintendent of the Connellsville Division, pointing out the handicaps under which the mines in this section were being served, said that the railroad company already had determined to try out the system of alternate day placements to the mines between Morgantown and Fairmont. If it is successful, it is likely that the plan will be extended to the mines between Point Marion and Smithfield and later between Smithfield and Connellsville. Under the system, the rating of the plants will not be affected and it is thought that a more economical operation of coal mines and railroad transportation may be possible.

Mr. Brown outlined in detail the present car situation affecting the country in general, the Connellsville Division of the Baltimore & Ohio and the other divisions of the system. Placement on the Connellsville Division of the railroad are approximately 1700 cars a day.

In concluding his remarks, Brown pledged the utmost effort of every official of the railroad to render the best possible service to every individual operator on the division. His remarks were supplemented by similar remarks by F. M. Jordan of Pittsburgh, coal freight agent of the Baltimore & Ohio who recently assumed that position, and by H. L. Ash, coal distributor for the Connellsville Division. J. C. McCormick, traveling coal freight agent, also was present at the meeting.

A letter received from W. G. Curran, general superintendent of transportation of the Baltimore & Ohio, received after the meeting had adjourned, says in part:

"I fully appreciate the friendliness of the Fayette-Greene Coal Producers Association as well as their earnest endeavors to cooperate with the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. In order to provide relief this company is making extraordinary effort to improve the car supply in that territory, realizing that which the past week speak for themselves. It will be our intention to continue to follow this vigorously."

FREIGHT RATES
NO LONGER HOLD
UP COMMERCE*Tonnage Moving Increasing Steadily, Annual Report
of I. C. U. Shows.*NET EARNINGS IN DOUBT

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—An increased scope of activities, due partially to enlarged responsibility put upon it by legislation of recent years, and partially to use of emergency powers required by industrial disturbance in recent months, were described today in the annual report of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Together with its usual work in regulation of railroad rates and service, the commission reviewed operations by which it assumed some degree of actual control of railroads during the summer period of emergency occasioned by the double strike in the coal mines and in the railroad shops; presented summaries of results in its supervision of railroad securities; and forecast the outlook for final conclusion of the protracted settlements of financial accounts between the government and the railroads arising out of the federal control during the war.

Its major action in the rate fixing field the report said was the 10 per cent reduction in freight charges of 1932.

"Manifestly, the existing rates are no longer interfering with the free flow of commerce as a whole," the report said.

"The tonnage moving has been steadily increasing in recent months. Little opportunity has been afforded for determination of the effect of the reduced rate level upon the net earnings of carriers, because of freight congestion and other abnormal conditions which have resulted from the coal strike, the shopmen's strike, and other causes."

The report reviewed how the commission, to meet the "menace" of domestic and industrial consequences of the strikes, had put priority orders into effect, and cooperated with the emergency organization of the federal fuel distribution office. Though conditions of disrepair of equipment grew "most serious on some important trunk lines," before the strikes were out, it was said, the commission had not found it necessary to lay on charges, or resort to the more extreme of measures which Congress legalized while the danger was greatest.

In its more traditional field, the regulation of rates and service, the commission was enabled during the year to reach a basis of cooperative understanding with state commissions and regulatory bodies, the report said, and for the plan devised, hope of ultimate success was expressed. It also moved to require experimental installation of automatic train control systems, by a larger number of railroads, for accident prevention and had laid the basis for comparative studies of efficiency in railroad operation.

Snubbed Girl Wife Awarded
$465,000 Damages in Suit Against Husband's Parents

By Associated Press.
BURLINGTON, Vt., Dec. 7.—An award of $465,000 was made today by the jury which for more than 40 hours and deliberated over the million dollar claim of Mrs. Dorris Stevens Woodhouse against her wealthy parents-at-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo E. Woodhouse, of New York and this city for the alienation of the affections of her husband, Douglas Woodhouse. The case had consumed five weeks in hearing.

The plaintiff, daughter of a family in moderate circumstances, was neighbors of the wealthy Woodhouses, contended that her parents-at-law had inspired and supported her husband in separating from her that left to him going to Rome to establish a residence as the basis for a divorce. She had been snubbed by them, she said, and never had been given adequate recognition as the wife of their son.

Of the $465,000 damages, awarded the jury directed that $400,000 be considered actual damages and $65,000 as a punitive and exemplary damage award.

Steps were taken immediately to appeal the case.

WAY BEING PAVED
FOR ANOTHER COAL
STRIKE IN SPRING*Operators and Miners Deadlock
in Cleveland Conference and Adjourn.*CENTRAL FIELD DISPUTED

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—Prospects of another nation-wide coal strike next spring were increased yesterday when blameworthy operators and miners, here seeking a basis for formulation of a wage schedule which would avert the strike, came to a deadlock and adjourned until January 3.

The big wage meeting scheduled at Cleveland January 3, which was to have been attended by 100 miners and operators, has been called off and will be held in this city instead, but with its basis of negotiation still unsettled.

Unexpected refusal on the part of the operators to accept the Central Competitive Field system as a basis for negotiation led to the adjournment. The operators stood pat on their proposal for an agreement by districts, with a provision that disputes remaining unsettled through such a plan be taken to a national arbitration board, appointed by the President.

John I. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, told the operators that acceptance of such a proposal would "turn back the hands of time" and be a repudiation of the principle of collective bargaining.

Leaders of both sides agreed that failure even to determine a basis of negotiation prior to the actual wage conference made the situation ominous. Mine union heads intimated that only the acceptance of the central competitive field as a wage-fixing basis or intervention by the Federal Government could prevent a strike. Operators, it had been believed, would consent to the four-state agreement, but their action in holding out for district settlements, which would allow various operators to consider local conditions in negotiating wage scales, has thrown the entire situation again into the realm of speculation.

Statistics on Illiteracy Are Given by Students

The chapel exercises of the Dunbar Township High School Wednesday were opened by a song by the student body, "God of the Nations Near and Far."

Principal W. E. Tietbold then made a few introductory remarks announcing the topic for discussion, "The Problem of Illiteracy."

The first phase of this problem to be discussed was "Illiteracy, a Sin, or Our Nation," by Elizabeth Shepard.

"We boast that our government is the best on earth, and yet this country has the highest number of illiterates of the enlightened nations of the globe," she said. "Six per cent of our population of one hundred million people can neither read nor write. These figures are only those who cannot read or write any language at all. Those who can read and write some language, either foreign or American, are not included in these figures."

The students were then entertained by three piano solos by Herbert Amshler, a member of the faculty. Mr. Tietbold briefly discussed "Illiteracy, a Sin, or Our Nation." In his remarks he brought out the fact that out of the population of 8,720,017 people in Pennsylvania, there are 417,302 who are illiterates, or in other words 4.78 per cent of the population. He said that according to the census of 1920 there were 11,966 people in Dunbar township and on the foregoing percentage basis there are 798 persons who are illiterate in the township.

Another phase of the illiteracy problem was discussed by Elmer Brown, whose theme was, "No Illiteracy After 1937."

"United States has the highest number of illiterates of any of the enlightened nations of the globe," the speaker said, "Germany and Denmark having the lowest. In the United States, Georgia has the highest number of illiterates and Wyoming has the lowest. There was a decrease in the number since 1900, yet there seem to be more than we should have. New York has taken a step towards decreasing the number of illiterates in that state by passing an amendment to the state constitution that no person would be permitted to vote who can neither read nor write. The greatest step that was ever taken, however, was when the compulsory school law was passed. By organizing and co-operating in blotting out illiteracy, there will be no illiteracy in this country after 1927."

of Silverdale Valued at $2,000.

Gilbert Feltz, a deputy employed at Phillips, was on trial in Uniontown today on a charge of attacking Marie Lozaw, 15 years old at Phillips the night of September 15.

The alleged attack took place at the playground, it was charged. The defense submitted evidence to impeach the character of the girl and to discredit her story.

"The case was given to the jury at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon."

Andrew Zan of Carnegie was sentenced to serve from two and a half to three years in the Western Penitentiary upon a plea of guilty to charges of receiving stolen goods in connection with the robbery of $2,000 worth of silverware from the home of Mrs. Isabelle Evans of Connellsville, August 31, last.

No trace was found for several months until word was received from Pittsburgh that the defendant had attempted to sell about $500 worth of the silverware at a store there. Zan, it is said, became frightened and left the goods in the store without receiving any money for them. According to his story he was acting for another man in trying to dispose of the goods. He said he ran after he saw the other man run. The silverware was identified and a description furnished of the man. Zan was arrested in Connellsville in October. The balance of the silverware was never recovered.

A mid at the Evans home claims to have seen the defendant at the Evans home a few days before the robbery seeking cast off clothing. Zan said to have served nine months for robbery in Allegheny county. Officers say he has a record.

Paul Keffer, caller on the U. S. S. Huron, was sentenced to pay a fine of $100, and serve 30 days in the county jail on a plea of guilty to charges of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. Keffer came home on a turlough. He was driving out the Connellsville road last Saturday night when he ran into the Oliver bus and caused some damage.

James Stinger, after the case had progressed, entered a plea of guilty to charges of non-support of his illegitimate children upon information of Lillian Ringer.

AIR PASSENGER FARES DOWN TO RAILROAD RATES

By Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Air transport is only slightly more costly than rail transportation, Archibald Black, aeronautical engineer of Garden City, N. Y., declared today in addressing the annual session of the American Society of Mechanics, Engineers and Compting airplane and railroad costs, "to correct the impression that air transport is enormously expensive," Mr. Black said.

"The distance from New York to Chicago is 908 miles by rail, or about 700 miles in a straight line, a flying distance, say of from 750 to 800 miles. Were it possible to load the airplane fully on each trip, the operating cost would be 6.5 cents per passenger mile, or $4.875 to $5.25 per passenger. This compares with the railroad rate of $51.30, including fire, excess fare, and berth."

"Allowing for the trip to and from the fields, as well as an intermediate stop, the time by air would average about nine hours as against 20 hours by rail. The only reason why we cannot carry passengers at such rates today is that it costs too much to get the business."

This frock realizes the smartness of drapery in the mode of the day and on the right, goes in for a wide draped effect, while on the left a panel and flat hips give variety. Navy blue wool with a wide band of red and gold braid, plus buttons to give it a martial air.

SOME OF THE HAT STYLES

Bows of Ribbon, Rosettes of Silk and All-Over Lace Vests in the Millinery Mode.

Even if you have no new clothes, you can at least have a new hat. Well, let it have some of any of these general tendencies and you will be all right as far as fashion is concerned.

Bows of ribbon are charming and entirely indicative of the modern fashion.

Rosettes of silk hand-made flowers are just the sort of thing to pose on the side of broad brims.

Rosettes of cream-colored lace are nice against the background of a dark panne velvet.

All-over lace veils are very much in the running.

The tricorne is coming into fashion again with all the full skirts.

Making a Choice.

Mr. Pennywise: "I'd rather you'd take the $70 hat instead of the $10 one. Then, when you change your mind, it'll be just right."

His Wife: "Stupid! I intend to change my mind twice."

At the Theatres

THE SOISSONS.

"THE BOND BOY." A relic of bygone days which had been actually employed in the carrying out of the mandates of justice is being used in Richard Barthelmess' production "The Bond Boy," which will be the first National attraction at the Soissons Theatre today Friday and Saturday. It is a gallows which had been the official instrument of death and which had been used for numerous hangings in Bath County, Virginia. It was erected by a man who constructed it for a hanging in 1895. "I have seen men who gloried in their work but I don't believe that I ever met a man who was prouder of himself than this hangman," said Mr. Barthelmess. "He gloated over it. His father was the sheriff of the county and was entrusted to do this job, which was part of his duty. Came the day of a hanging and the sheriff was ill. Nobody else would do the job. But the son took up his father's work and pulled the trigger which sprung the trap."

THE PARAMOUNT.

"MARRIED PEOPLE." What makes a happy home? Here is a question of vital importance to every married man and woman in the world, and the solution, so often lost to many, is found in the story of "Married People" at the Paramount Theatre today. Don't miss this picture of love, romance and heart throbs. What do married people need to make them happy? What makes some married people conspicuous? Are married people ever really happy? Half the married people in the world don't appreciate each other. What goes on in the homes of married people? What are the blessings that married people enjoy? Answers found in this picture.

THE ORPHEUM.

"A HOMESPUN VAMP" in which May McAvoy will be seen today at the Orpheum Theatre, offers the star an entirely new kind of role—that of a little country Clodovilla, who drudges for a pair of slugs old Scotch uncle. Naturally the tale abounds in homely country touches, from the cooking of corned beef and cabbage by the stovetop, through the ludicrous match-making attempts of her guardians, a pair of masculine old maids who are, respectively, the village cobbler and carpenter. A 'tough' country lover forms an excellent foil to a city sweetheart who appears later in the story. This gentleman's path is by no means smooth, however, and before the clever little romance is ended there are plenty of decidedly dramatic complications. Frank O'Connor directed with Hal Ross on at the camera. Thompson Buchanan supervised. The cast includes Daniel Ross, Charles Ogilvie, Kathleen Kirkham, Helen Dunbar, Josephine Crowell and Lincoln Steadman.

THURSDAY EVENING, DEC. 7, 1934.

KEEPING FAITH WITH THE YOUTH OF THE STATE.

By their action in contributing $5,000 to the $20,000 emergency building fund being raised for Pennsylvania State College, the members of the Poland China Swine Breeders Association of Fayette county have given substantial proof of their appreciation of what this institution has done and is doing to make "swine breeding" a more important and more profitable branch of live stock raising.
They have done even more. They have displayed an unselfishness of spirit in this assisting to better equip State College to serve young men and women who in future years will attend this institution to qualify as leaders in the various activities of farming, engineering and industry,
and as good and useful citizens of the commonwealth.

This magnanimity on part of Fayette county farmers and stock raisers becomes all the more praiseworthy
when it is remembered that comparatively few of them are bound to State College by the ties formed by having been students or having sons and daughters who have matriculated there. Their interest in the appeal being made for funds to erect buildings to house students, who cannot now be accepted for lack of such accommodations, arises from a sense of obligation to all good citizens should feel when contemplating the splendid service
State College has rendered, and can still more efficiently render, to the youth of the state when the facilities for that service are made more adequate to the needs and opportunities.

The potato growers of the state took the lead in the campaign now in progress by raising $150,000 for the erection and equipment of a hospital for the use of students. The poultry raisers, farm implement makers and other groups of interests associated with farming are being stimulated to action by the example of the potato growers, each feeling that it is the very plain duty of the people of the state to keep faith with its youth who are ambitious to better fit themselves for the increasingly complex requirements of husbandry, mining, industry,
manufacture, business and commerce,
in Pennsylvania is to retain the leadership in these things to which its importance entitles it.

MAKING EDUCATION WEEK A PERMANENT FEATURE.

If persons having doubts as to the objects and purposes of Education Week were to make a visit to Dunbar Township High School any morning
this week, they would be enlightened as well as edified by the program that is being carried out in connection with the country-wide observance of the week.

Topics having a direct bearing upon the importance of education in the life of the nation and the people are discussed in an intelligent and informing manner. Students are given opportunities to participate in these discussions, and greatly to their advantage as a means of teaching them to think and give expression to their own ideas and opinions on important subjects.

This method of emphasizing the benefits of education suggests the possibilities of the establishment of a periodical program for the discussion of subjects related to school work and the preparation for the duties of citizenship. Since the abandonment of the old-fashioned debating or literary society, which a generation ago was regarded as a necessary feature in the public schools, nothing has been found to take its place.
That this institution was of value to the community is a fact who took part in the program.

men and women
who have attained success later in life very willingly.

To replace some of the latter day activities in schools, which entertain rather than instruct and which are without influences in the direction of stimulating serious thought, it might not be out of place to try the open forum as a substitute. The ability to think on their feet, or to give clear expression to thoughts, is a gift of only few students or persons of mature years. It can be acquired but not by study of books. That provides information, not facility in imparting it. Public discussion is the best method of acquiring proficiency in what nature may have denied as a gift in telling what students know or think.

It is barely possible, therefore, that progressive schools like Dunbar Township High may deem the experience of Education Week so valuable as to make its observance a more or less permanent feature.

The Turks seem disposed to think
a little straighter on the proposition of keeping the Dardanelles Strait open both in peace and war, fearing that otherwise their country might be reduced to straitened circumstances by being forced to build and maintain a navy.

Forcing Dunbar's chief industry into bankruptcy is much too high a price
to pay for a strike that yielded no benefits to a single person who took part in it.

In the mutual rejections by miners and operators of proposals to form a basis of settlement of wage disputes,
both parties are running true to form,
with both heading straight for another strike in the coal industry.

The Klan as a National Problem

The Literary Digest.

Half the states in the Union are now the scenes of Ku Klux activities, according to a study of the news dispatches made by a Massachusetts paper the "Worcester Gazette." The Klan carried the state elections in Texas and Oregon on November 7. In Louisiana the situation is such that Governor John M. Parker makes a special trip to Washington for help to handle "horrifying crimes" in his state attributed to clansmen there and to others coming over the borders from other states. The announced readiness of the federal government to cooperate with Louisiana, or any other state "whenever federal interests are involved" seems to the New York Tribune "a definite warning to the Ku Klux Klan that its leaders will do well to heed."

While at present there is apparently to be no actual aid given by federal agencies, the Tribune notes that several states are now ready to cooperate with Louisiana against the "Invisible Empire." The governor of Georgia, where the present Ku Klux Klan started says he will cooperate. Governor Elliott of Oregon says the Klan has been an "active menace" in his state; that "no greater menace confronts the United States today" and that "the time has come for Americans to assert themselves in a nation-wide battle against this political iniquity." The governor of Connecticut says the state police have been watching the Klan there. Governor Allen of Kansas recently announced that the Klan officials would be expelled from his state and the Supreme Court of that state has been asked to halt all Klan activities in Kansas.

While Governor Parker denounces as "extravagantly inaccurate" the Washington Post's recent assertions that the Ku Klux Klan "has virtually reduced the sovereign state of Louisiana" to vassalage, and that "the machinery of state government has almost ceased to function" the press are convinced by his request for assistance that the problem has outgrown state boundaries and must now be dealt with by the nation as a whole.
The organization, as the Washington
Star notes, is found now North, South, East and West. It is only right, declares the New York World, "that the federal authority should take cognizance of a subversive movement that is far wider than any state." Although a New Orleans correspondent of the Philadelphia Public Ledger says the Ku Klux Klan boasts 145,000 members in Louisiana—more than two-thirds of the vote cast in the last state election—representatives of Louisiana in Congress deny that there is any absence of normal order, or anything like a Ku Klux "menace" in their state.

The Ku Klux "Bureau of Information," according to the Albany Journal claims that "the Klan is growing at the rate of about 10,000 new members every week." What asks the Washington Star, "explains the growth of this organization?" We might let the Klan's spokesmen help furnish an answer. For instance, in an issue of Colonel Mayfield's Weekly (Houston, Tex.), appearing after the Ku Klux candidates won the Texas "run-off" primary last summer, the editor, who must not be confused with Senator elect Alvin Karpis, sets this down as the Ku Klux Klan's mission in Texas and the rest of the world:

"It is going to drive the bootleggers forever out of this land and place whisky-making on a parity with counterfeiting."
"It is going to bring clean moving pictures to this country; it is going to bring clean literature to this country. It is going to drive the Catholics back into their churches and keep them there. It is going to protect and preserve our public schools at all hazards. It is going to break up roadside parking, and see that the young man who induces a young girl to get drunk is held accountable. It is going to enforce the laws of the land; it is going to protect homes; its conduct is going to be such that to be a Klansman will be greater than a king. The Klan means a new era in the life of America. It means a return of old time Southern chivalry and defiance to wickedness. It means that the 'married man with an affinity' has no place in our midst."

It is interesting to note that a reader of the Literary Digest writes
from a Pennsylvania town to say:
"If the Ku Klux can assist our courts to secure justice and throw fear into the hearts of men that make mockery of our laws, then I am ready to be a Klansman." In his recent book "The Modern Ku Klux Klan" H. P. Fry, author of "The Klan," explains the success of Ku Klux
propaganda by the growth of discordant groups among the American people. He thinks that favors shown to negroes by northern politicians and the activities of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People have been powerful recruiting forces for Ku Kluxism. The Ku Klux organizer constantly tells the cry that "social equality is to be forced on the South."

On the Pacific coast the Klan "is attempting to win the people by putting forth the doctrine of 'white supremacy' in relation to the Japanese question." The writer believes that of late there has been a great increase of antagonism between the Christian and the Jew, between the Protestant and the Catholic. The Klan organizes work largely upon "a feeling of jealousy of the Jews' great advance in America along all lines of commercial and professional activity."

To rid the United States of the "Invisible Empire" Mr. Fry suggests first, publicity, and then Congressional legislation against organizations with secret membership lists or engaged in promoting racial or religious discord.
The states, he says, can help stamp out Ku Kluxism through laws directed against organizations "stirring up religious and racial prejudice, against unwarranted interference with the law-enforcing branches of the government and against going about the

Tornadoes Will Close Season With Smilers Saturday Afternoon

Local Outfit Preparing to Keep Its Undeclared Record Clean.

COKERS ARE FAVORITES

Remarkable interest is being displayed in the coming game this week-end between the Pleasant Valley Smilers and some odds on the Tornadoes, have been offered by staunch supporters. The team will present its strongest front for the clash. The Smilers have a big reputation, being in the best class of independent grid outfits in the Pittsburgh district.

Connellsville's football stars are not saying a great deal about the game. With a perfect record behind it, the team is determined to close the season this year with an unblemished chart.

Coincident with being the final clash of the schedule, the game will also be the stickest one engaged in by the Cokers. Fans here have been demanding that an outfit capable of forcing the Brown and White athletes to their fullest power be brought here and in the Smilers this has been done.

Coch Jones put his men through their paces this afternoon and a light workout tomorrow will complete the practice. The attraction will merit the largest attendance of the year as the Smilers have been playing to crowds of several thousands everywhere they appear.

New Uniforms for the High School basketball team are expected to be in use in the early games. Men were measured for them before the close of the football term.

There is considerable disappointment among the younger boys of the city because of the failure of the Baltimore & Ohio Y. M. C. A. to organize a junior league this year. For the past several seasons the boys have been using the "Y" floor several afternoons a week and from them some fine material has been developed. Big fellows like Yaw, Edmunds, Burkett, Neld, Cunningham, Shaw, Dodson, LaRue, Welsh and Wilhelm received training in that gymnasium. The Scout League will be another "dead" organization this season for the lack of a floor, the "Y" having been used before.

The senior class team of the Uniontown High School wants games with teams in the 15-19 year old class. Teams desiring to meet the school outfit write Finley Higginbotham, 114 Union street, Uniontown, Pa.

May's South Side Pirates lost a game of basketball to the St. Vincent Club of Leisnering on Tuesday evening. The score was 34-24.

It made no material difference to Mr. Eaton whether the police took him in Montana or Chicago, since in either case recognition of him would be certain in the end; but in Chicago this recognition must be immediate, complete, and utterly convincing.

The train was traveling steadily and faster than its regular schedule; it evidently was running as a special, some other train taking the ordinary traffic; it halted now only at the largest cities. In the morning it crossed into Minnesota; and in the late afternoon, slowing, it rolled into some large city which Eaton knew must be Minneapolis or St. Paul. The car here was uncoupled from the train and picked up by a switch engine; as dusk fell, Eaton, peering out of his window, could see that they had been left lying in the railroad yards; and about midnight, awakening in his berth, he realized that the car was still motionless. He could account for this stoppage in their progress only by some change in the condition of Santoline. Was Santoline sinking, so that they no longer dared to travel? Was he, perhaps—dead?

No sounds came to him from the car to confirm Eaton in any conclusion; there was nothing to be learned from anyone outside the car. Eaton lay for a long time, listening to other sounds and wondering what was occurring—or had occurred—at the other end of his car. Toward morning he fell asleep.

CHAPTER X

Publicity Not Wanted.

Basile Santoline dying. Blind millionaire lawyer taken ill on train.

The alarm of the cry came to answer Eaton's question early the next morning. He threw up the curtain and saw a vagrant newsboy, evidently passing through the railroad yards to sell to the trainmen, Eaton, halting the boy put out his hand for a paper.

He spread the news-sheet before him and read that Santoline's condition was very low and becoming rapidly worse. But below, under a Montana date-line, Eaton saw it proclaimed that the blind millionaire was merely sick; there was no suggestion anywhere of an attack. The paper stated only that Basile Santoline, returning from Seattle with his daughter and his secretary, Donald Avery, had been taken seriously ill upon a train which had been stalled for two days in the snow in Montana. The column ended with the statement that Mr. Santoline had passed through Minneapolis and gone on to Chicago under care of Dr. Douglas Sinclair.

Eaton stared at the newspaper without reading, after he saw that. He had not realized, until now that he was told that Harriet Santoline had gone—for it her father had gone on the train in the past. Since Santoline was dying, would there be any longer an object in concealing the fact that he had been murdered?

He dressed and then paced back and forth the two or three steps his compartment allowed him. He stepped now and then to listen; from outside came the noise of the yard; but he made out no sound with the car. If it had been occupied as on the days previous, he must have heard some one coming to the washroom at his end. Was he alone in the car now, or had the customary moving about taken place before he awoke?

Finally, to free himself from his nervous listening for sounds which never came, he picked up the paper again. He read:

"The news of Mr. Santoline's visit of a week on the Coast, if not known already in great detail circles, is likely to prove interesting there. For years he has been the chief agent in keeping peace among some of the great conflicting interests, and more than once he has advised the declaring of financial war when war seemed to him the correct solution. Thus, five years ago, when the violent death of Matthew Larson threatened to precipitate trouble among western capitalists, Santoline kept order in what might very well become financial chaos. If his recent visit to the Pacific coast was not purely for personal reasons but was also to adjust antagonisms such as charged by Gabriel Warden before his death, the loss of Santoline at this time may precipitate troubles which, living, his advice and information might have been able to prevent."

Having read and reread this long paragraph, Eaton thrust the sheet out the window. As he sat thinking, with lips tight closed, he heard for the first time that morning footsteps at his end of the car. The door of his compartment was unlocked and opened, and he saw Doctor Sinclair.

"Mr. Santoline wants to speak to you," the surgeon announced quietly.

This startling revelation of all he had tried, unaverted Eaton. He lifted up, then sank back for better composure.

"Mr. Santoline is here, then?"

"Yes? Of course he's here?"

"And he's conscious?"

"He has been conscious for the better part of two days. Didn't they tell you?"

Eaton looked toward the window, breathing hard. "I heard the news-boy."

Sinclair shrugged. "The papers print what they can get and in the way which seems most effective to them," was his only comment.

The surgeon led Eaton to the door of the drawing room, showed him in and left him.

Harriet Santoline was sitting on the little lounge opposite the berth where her father lay. She was watching the face of her father, and as Eaton stood in the door, he saw her lean forward and gently touch her father's hand; then she turned and saw Eaton.

"Here is Mr. Eaton, Father," she said.

"Sit down," Santoline directed.

GULBRANSEN The Player-Piano

The Truthful Trade-Mark of the Gulbransen

A baby's hand on a pedal of the Gulbransen causes it to play. The trade-mark tells a truthful story.

It is the exclusive Gulbransen features—the fine craftsmanship—the patented design—that make "easy to play" a fact.

Naturally the results you obtain on the Gulbransen are far above the average. The instrument is flexible, responsive, simple. Even a novice, with the aid of Gulbransen Instruction Rolls—also an exclusive idea—quickly learns to play well.

When buying a Gulbransen, you are protected as to price. Mark this: no matter in what town or from what dealer you buy a Gulbransen, the price paid will be $700, $600, $495 or $365, according to the style selected.

The retail selling figure is branded in the back of every Gulbransen—the factory. Its price is established—its value unquestioned.

The baby trade-mark stands for real music, easily played. It appears on more player-pianos each year than any other trade-mark or name. It is the emblem of Gulbransen ideals, ability, experience and policies.

"BEST BABIES"

One Minute Health Talk. No. 7

Do YOU mothers realize the necessity of retaining the long-given brightness of every child?

Who can gaze upon that picture of innocence without a sense of awe for the possibilities that lie dormant there? For their futures we can only dream and hope.

Yet is this all we can do? Is there not a moral responsibility connected with parenthood which leads us to safeguard the health of the little ones that they may realize the greatest possibilities? I believe every father and mother realizes this responsibility and seeks to meet it; yet very few understand how it may be done effectively.

Did you ever stop to think what change has occurred to make a healthy child ill? First we think of the food—yet we know that the same foods have been used for weeks or months without leading to sickness.

We must come to the conclusion that something has changed in the child's body. This is exactly what has happened. One of the tiny bones in the spine has been altered in its position and is causing pressure on the delicate nerves that supply all organs. The result can only be sickness.

You will be surprised at the ready responses these little ones show under CHIROPRACTIC adjustments. Let your CHIROPRACTOR find the cause of your child's sickness and remove that cause. Today.

COMB SAGE TEA IN HAIR TO DARKEN IT

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Keep Her Locks Dark, Glossy, Beautiful

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite essential, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular, because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it, and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.—Advertisement.

MILL ACTIVITY IS UNABATED AT 75 PER CENT OF CAPACITY

Recession in Demand Has Not Occurred as Was Predicted; Pig Iron Prices Still Steady

Special to The Weekly Courier
NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—The American Metal Market and Daily Iron & Steel Report will review the steel and iron trade tomorrow as follows:
Steel mill activity continues unabated, in general, there being slight recessions in spots. The industry as a whole is operating at fully 75 per cent of capacity and producing ingots at the rate of about 40,000,000 tons a year, as has been the case now for more than two months.

Up to date predictions that production would recede, from lack of demand, has proved incorrect. While new buying has been relatively light for several weeks, old orders readily support mill operations, and customers are accepting shipments very freely. Should instructions be given now to curtail or postpone shipments, the movement could be regarded as merely an episode of the season of year, since buyers do not care to inventory any more material than necessary.

In some quarters difficulty is experienced in believing that consumption of steel at the present time is equal to production, which for two months has been at a rate fully 15 per cent greater than the average rate in the six months preceding. However, much construction work was delayed and it is plainly seen that tens of thousands of dwelling houses, in course of construction are awaiting piping. Demand upon pipe mills for butt weld pipe is unabated.

Following the reaffirmation November 23 by the American Sheet & Tin Plate Company of prices of $4.75 on tin plate and $3.50 on black sheet, the Carnegie Steel Company has announced a price of $3.50 on first quarter sheet bars. While some interests in the trade were surprised that sheet and tin plate prices were not advanced some observers are now surprised that sheet bars were not set at a lower figure. The Steel Corporation subsidiary pays the sheet bar price, the same as outside customers.

Pig iron prices continue to show a general sagging tendency. Basic iron is offered at as low as $25.50. Valley white foundry iron at Buffalo is down to $25. These low prices do not fit with existing contracts for Connellsville coke, and some furnaces have requested coke operators to make a concession.

Home-made Remedy Stops Coughs Quickly

The best cough medicine you ever used. A family remedy easily and quickly made. Saves about 25¢.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results, it beats anything else you ever tried. It really stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good. Four 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex in a quart bottle, then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma. Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for its healing effect on the membranes. To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. NEW FUR EFFECT

Mole and Seal, Ribbon and Braid Evolve Striped Model.

Novel Standing Collar Made of Tubular Strips Braided to Form Desired Width.

Our own American designers are doing some wonderful things with furs, observes a fashion correspondent in the New York Tribune. A new treatment in furs, particularly mole and Hudson seal, is achieved by joining vertically narrow strips of the fur with grosgrain ribbon and then applying soutash braid to the center of the ribbon, thus evolving a striped effect throughout the garment. The grosgrain ribbon is of the same shade as the fur, whereas the soutash is of a contrasting color. Only the latter is visible. For instance, a coat of mole-skin has the skins joined with taupe ribbon and is combined with green soutash. Another, of Hudson seal, is joined with black ribbon and trimmed with white braid. A novel standing collar on a moleskin coat is made of tubular strips of the fur braided to form the desired width. Mink tails joined to form narrow strips often are used as a trimming on mink coats. An interesting example is a short jacket which shows this trimming around the collar, cuffs and band which encircles the hips. The tails, being of a darker shade than the remainder of the animal, make a really lovely trimming.

Embroidery for years has been trying to invade the realm of furs. It started by making itself conspicuous on the linings of fur coats. Now it appears on the pelts. A blousing afternoon wrap of Hudson seal is embroidered about the waistline with silver threads and jet beads. The same model in moleskin shows metal embroidery and steel beads. A fur very much used this year for both sports and street wear is Iceland krummer. For street wear it is being dyed in light and dark gray and brown made up into smart jackets. In white, its natural color, it is charming for sports suits. A particularly lovely skating suit consists of a hip-length straight-line jacket having full sleeves, with deep cuffs and a large rolling collar, knickerbockers and a tan-s-shanter. The entire costume is lined with natter blue broadcloth silk.

Persian lamb will be more popular than ever this season. The Russian influence is again evident in a hip-length coat of this fur which blossoms over a tight band at the hips. It is trimmed around the high rolling collar, the wide sleeves and around the bottom with applied motifs of red kid edged with black soutash and further ornamented with tiny nickel buttons. Vivid colors blend with metal in the lining of this model.

TRY MAGNESIA FOR STOMACH TROUBLE

Neutralizes Stomach Acidity, Prevents Food Fermentation, Sour Gassy Stomach and Acid Indigestion.

Doubtless if you are a sufferer from indigestion, you have already tried various remedies, such as laxatives, cathartics, and other drugs, and you know these things will not cure your trouble. In some cases do not even give relief.

But, before giving up hope and deciding you are a chronic dyspeptic, just try the effect of a little Blaud's Magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate or milk but the pure Blaud's Magnesia which you can obtain from practically any drugstore in either powdered or tablet form.

Take a teaspoonful of the powder or two compressed tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach which now causes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, wind, flatulency, heartburn and the bloated or heavy, lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat.

You will find that if provided you take a little Blaud's Magnesia immediately after a meal, you can eat almost anything and enjoy it without any danger of pain or discomfort, to follow and moreover the continued use of the Blaud's Magnesia cannot injure the stomach in any way, for as there are no symptoms of acid indigestion, advertisement.

Has He Found a Cure for Asthma?

Simple Prescription Gives Instant Relief; Makes Breathing Easy.

In New England, where bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other diseases of the throat and lungs are so prevalent, remarkably successful results are being reported following the use of a new form of treatment known as Oxidase, a physician's prescription.

Oxidase is a harmless but powerful combination of curative essential oils concentrated and compressed into a small tablet. One of these tablets slowly dissolved before going to bed seems to have the effect of releasing the muscular contraction of the bronchial tubes, opening up the air passages and regulating spasmodic lung action. This enables the patient to breathe easily and naturally while lying down and to get a comfortable night's sleep.

So much in fact has been shown that local druggists to including A. A. Clarke have secured a small supply and state that they are authorized to refund the money paid for the first package if, after using this new treatment fails to give relief. Oxidase is pleasant to take, contains no harmful, habit-forming ingredients and is not expensive. This makes your test an easy matter. Advertisement.
